

20 GOOD REASONS for street transformations in neighbourhoods

The brochure about the 20 good reasons is about giving back the street space to people, but especially to children.

Urban planning has been geared towards the car and the street has become a space hostile to children. As a result, children play outside less and less and are no longer able to move around in their neighbourhood independently and unsupervised.

From reason number one "Children are not smaller versions of adults" to number 20 "Streets for People", one can find many ways to create a more liveable and attractive neighbourhood for everyone.
